The lexical effects of Anglo-Scandinavian linguistic contact on Old English

Related outputs

A study of Aldred’s multiple glosses to the Lindisfarne Gospels

Identifying and dating Norse-derived terms in Medieval English: approaches and problems

Norse-Derived Terms in Orm’s Lexico-Semantic Field of EMOTION

Anger, fear and amusement: the lexico-semantic field of emotions in the Ormulum
Pons-Sanz, S.M. 2014. Anger, fear and amusement: the lexico-semantic field of emotions in the Ormulum. *18th International Conference on English Historical Identifying Norse-derived terms in Early English texts: approaches and problems

The Language of Early English Literature: From Cædmon to Milton

Does order matter? a study of Aldred’s multiple glosses to the Lindisfarne Gospels

Aldred's multiple glosses: a study of ordering preferences

The etymology of the OE hōre word-field and the lexico-cultural climate of eleventh-century England

Manual d’anglès medieval tardà

Norse-derived vocabulary in the Anglo-Saxon chronicle

Arabic sources of Scandinavian history

Recovering the northern dialects in the early history of English
Pons-Sanz, S.M. 2009. Recovering the northern dialects in the early history of English. AEDEAN Conference. University of Cadiz, Cadiz, Spain

Loanwords as gender markers in the Viking diaspora

Norse-derived terms and structures in the Battle of Maldon

Loanwords and gender in the Viking diaspora

A reconsideration of Wulfstan's use of Norse-derived terms: the case of þrǣl

A paw in every pie: Wulfstan and the Anglo-Saxon chronicle again

An etymological note on two old English medical terms: ridesoht and flacg

Two compounds in the old English and old Norse versions of the prose Phoenix

Norse-derived vocabulary in late old English texts: Wulfstan's works, a case study, 3rd edition

OE māl as a gloss for L clasma in Aldhelmian glossaries

Anglo-Scandinavian trade or paganism? OE hǣðen in the first Cleopatra glossary

Sharpening, Confiding and OE getryccað

The Norse-derived vocabulary in the Battle of Maldon

OE féś(i)an / ME féśen revisited

An etymological note on of līfe forrǣdan

The Norse origin of OE afol / ME afell: is evidence strong enough?

Archbishop Wulfstan’s lexical choices: lāgu vs âe

Friends and relatives in need of an explanation: Gr. anagkaîos, L necessarius and PGmc *nauð-

For Gode and for worolde: Wulfstan’s differentiation of the divine and worldly realms through word-formation processes

A sociolinguistic approach to the Norse-derived words in the glosses to the Lindisfarne and Rushworth Gospels

The adaptation of ON grið in old English as represented by the works of Archbishop Wulfstan

Pons-Sanz, S.M. 2004. The adaptation of ON grið in old English as represented by the works of Archbishop Wulfstan. 11th International Medieval Congress. Leeds 12 - 15 Jul 2004

Whom did al-Ghazâl meet? An exchange of embassies between the Arabs from al-Andalus and the Vikings

Being a thrall of the antichrist: how much lower can you get?

A sociolinguistic approach to the Norse-derived words in the glosses to the Lindisfarne and Rushworth Gospels

Aldredian glosses to proper names in the Lindisfarne Gospels

Communication strategies by non-native interviewers

The Basque country and the vikings during the ninth century

Aldred’s glosses to numismatic terms in the Lindisfarne Gospels

Datos para la reconstrucción léxica del inglés antiguo: las glosas de Aldred a los Evangelios de Lindisfarne

Communication strategies by non-native interviewers

Chaucer's use and abuse of fourteenth-century English in the miller's tale

Analysis of the Scandinavian loanwords in the Aldredian Glosses to the Lindisfarne Gospels

Aldred's glosses to numismatic terms in the Lindisfarne Gospels

PERMALINK - https://westminsterresearch.westminster.ac.uk/item/8z2v9/the-lexical-effects-of-anglo-scandinavian-linguistic-contact-on-old-english

Share this
Tweet
Email